Recently, EEACS has been very successful with their sports teams and we can see an incredible amount of progress in many of these athletes. Starting off with our Executive Girls Volleyball Team who, on October 1st, took a flawless victory against Faith Christian Academy with an ending score of 3-0. These girls went again on Sunday, October 3rd, to win against Weatherly Area School District. Player Kiomara Quiones said “I would say we are like a family. We communicate effectively, and support each other.” It goes to show that focusing on teamwork and building a bond helps their game. The girls continued their winning streak and beat Lincoln Leadership Academy, Liberty High School, and other schools, improving their record to 12-3. On October 26th, they went to districts and beat Notre Dame. They are the first Girls Volleyball Team at Executive to make the playoffs. We hope to continue to see them grow in their skills as the program progresses. If you are interested in joining the volleyball team for next year, know that there are many benefits to playing volleyball, such as getting exercise, having fun with friends, and being able to add it to college applications.

After winning the last 3 district titles for men’s basketball, we now officially have 2 official college bound athletes on our varsity roster. These 2 athletes are Kobe Magee and Jeremiah Bembry. Magee will be attending Drexel University, which has a Division I team. Bembry will be playing on the Division I Florida State University team. Both players demonstrate strong talent on the court and it is excellent that these players have committed to a college. We are excited for what’s to come in their basketball career. The men’s basketball team has a record of 20-5 as of the end of last March. One player stated that games have been good for them as they play difficult games against teams in the league. The team works well together to come out on top. The future looks bright for the men’s Raptor basketball team and we look forward to covering the women’s basketball team in our next issue as their season starts on Friday, December 10th.

Moving on to Raptor Football, we can tell this team has the potential and drive to go far. The team has encountered some victorious wins and some tough losses, but it’s clear that this team started right out of the gate ready to compete. We were able to have our very first home game on October 9th at Muhlenberg. There was a huge crowd filled with families, staff, and students, there to cheer on and support our team. That game was a proud win for coach Larry Ford. Even with the win, each game is an opportunity to learn, grow, and become better on and off the field. In the end, these athletes have been working hard for this and to finally see it all come together as a team has been worth all of the hard work put in. The team is also breaking standards with player LaMiah Clemons, who is a strong force to be reckoned with. The team was supposed to have a homecoming game on October 30th, but that unfortunately got cancelled. However, they played an amazing game against Holy Cross on November 6th, defeating them 34-8. This left the team with the well deserved Eastern Conference Champion title.

He’s All That Review

Netflix recently released He’s All That, a remake of the late ‘90s hit movie, She’s All That. This remake stars Tik Tok sensation, Addison Rae, and Cobra Kai’s Tanner Buchanan. Padgett Sawyer (Addison Rae) is an internet celebrity who makes it her mission to transform Cameron Kweller (Tanner Buchanan), one of the biggest losers in school, into a prom king-worthy candidate. Let’s take a look at some of the aspects of the film.

Let’s first discuss the script. The script’s overall dialogue wasn’t very unique or impressive. At times, the writers attempted to add humor, but it didn’t work out. Many of the lines were boring, and there weren’t any lines that stuck out more than the rest. The film includes inappropriate language that wouldn’t necessarily be considered TV-14.

Next, I’ll review the acting. The acting wasn’t the best. It wasn’t very expressive. It doesn’t allow the viewers to feel the emotions that are meant to be depicted in certain scenes. Some scenes were very awkward and may make viewers cringe. It’s actually a bit surprising considering that some of the actors had taken part in other roles previously.

Rating: 2/5 ★★☆☆☆

Overall, for a teen film, it was pretty average. It wasn’t the greatest film, but it also wasn’t the worst. The acting needs to be more expressive and evoke more emotion. The dialogue should also be more meaningful and have more unique lines. Considering the fact that Addison Rae is a newer actress, it wasn’t horrible, but it could definitely be improved. What movies should I review next?

Blocks or Periods?

Zora Borde-Perry

Block Scheduling is starting to become a lot more common in high schools. A lot of us have probably taken the time to think to ourselves: "Is this a good or bad thing?" I think this type of scheduling is the best option for high school students. Blocks are an hour and 15 minutes as opposed to periods that are only 45 minutes long. It also creates a less stressful environment for students by allowing them to get their work done in class. It also allows teachers to use class time to go over more material. Block scheduling has fewer classes daily; therefore, students are not as overwhelmed. The amount of homework taken home at the end of the day with block scheduling is minimal compared to the previous schedule. You will often see this type of scheduling in high school settings with A and B day blocks. This allows students to have different classes on different days; therefore, they only have to focus on a few subjects a day and can learn or study as needed. Having class every other day gives students that necessary extra time to complete homework and ask for help if they need it. If they are unsure about a question, they can also ask the teacher when they are at school. An alternative to block scheduling is periods. So you would have around eight classes a day, meaning a student would have to take home eight classes of homework, which plays a negative role and creates a stressful environment instead of fostering a positive-learning environment. To conclude, I believe that block scheduling is a great idea, and I cannot wait to see what EEACS continues to add to the high school.

On October 2, 2021, I had the chance to personally watch the Raptors play less than a mile from the Eagles Stadium. As a team, the Raptors played better than they have in the past and the team definitely came out firing on all cylinders right out of the gate. During the second play on offense, junior Darmel Lopez threw a BOMB to his star senior, WR Dontae Oquendo. On defense, the Raptors defensive line forced a fumble, setting up senior Damaurian for a touchdown, which was the first ever defensive touchdown in our school’s history! The defense forced a shutout. Even when Overbrook was going to score, junior Cavin King tracked the player down to then get a flag. The first school shutout in EEACS history with many more to come! A special mention goes to LaMiah Clemons for getting her first made field goal! The final score from the Raptors game was 26-0. Before and after the game I interviewed 10th grade starting Tight End Damon Young. When I asked how he felt going into the game he said, “I feel like my team is going to go out there and put on a show for the school.” They definitely did. Damon also had an impressive 4 catches with 30 yards, which makes him confident in winning next week. Damon is hoping to make the playoffs and get his first championship win as a sophomore. The Raptors are looking dangerous this year, especially for a first year program that is currently 3-4 with a few weeks left until districts.

Halloween Kills: A Less Exciting Addition to the Halloween Saga

The smell of buttery, salty popcorn. A cold, refreshing Coke. Chewing on sour gummy candy. Nothing beats a trip to the movie theaters, regardless of the movie you’re seeing. When it comes to the next part of the Michael Myers saga, this movie fell short of what it could have been. In my opinion, the movie was just full of the classic slasher characteristics. It’s gory, full of blood, and isn’t very exciting. However, a cool part about this movie is that it does devote a lot of the film to continuing the stories of the original survivors from the 1978 film, which was the original Halloween. When it comes to the dialogue, there was a lot of repetitive language. It became boring and monotonous to hear the word “evil” so many times, even though Michael truly can be considered evil.

Coming in at a 39% Rotten Tomato score for critics, and a 68% score for the audience, we can see a wide gap between ratings. Overall, it comes down to what kind of movie watcher you are. If you enjoy your basic slasher film and don’t need a lot of creativity in dialogue or details in the setting, this film is for you. A final Halloween movie, Halloween Ends, is set to hit theaters on October 12, 2022. By the way Kills ended, this could be an interesting end to the Halloween saga.

Midnight Mass: Vampires and Religion?

Adrian Coca Seri

Netflix recently released a new horror series this month that was written and created by Mike Flanagan, who was the creator of The Haunting of Hill House. Midnight Mass takes place in a secluded island community where miraculous events start to happen after the arrival of a young and charismatic priest. This priest seems to have a secret. Played by Hamish Linklater, we see the mystery consistently kept on point with his mystifying, but confident personality. However, he seems to have some sort of secret that he’s unable to keep under control.

The drama doesn’t just focus on the current situation, but also hones in on the characters’ pasts and resentments, which ultimately makes them fall for the priest and his convincing words. In addition to all of this, religion plays a huge role in the show. We see some of the issues we currently face in our society such as not teaching any religions in public schools, and people fighting over the real way to meet God. This show is a must watch. It’s thrilling, enigmatic, and intriguing. I highly recommend that you go watch it. It’s definitely binge-worthy. If you enjoyed watching The Haunting of Hill House, you will love this show.
Morning Routines: Are you maximizing your time in the morning?

Danibel Rodriguez

Getting ready in the morning can be a process. Dr. Tara Swart tells her readers that “What you do in the morning can make or break your brain’s performance.” Swart also said that “A few simple changes to your morning routine can significantly boost your cognitive functioning.” How do you make it as efficient as possible? Do you wake up bright and early to get things done or do you wake up at the last minute, rushing to the bus stop as it pulls away? I took the time to ask a few people around EEACS about their morning routines to see if there are any common trends.

Taking the time to see what others do for their morning routine can be beneficial in helping us maximize the way we spend each morning. The first person I interviewed was Tiffany. She gets up at around 5:50-6:00 each morning, then takes a 10 minute shower, and brushes her teeth. She then does her skin care and gets into her uniform. Next, Tiffany puts on her jewelry, then goes to the bathroom and does her makeup and hair. Before she needs to leave for the bus, Tiffany feeds her dog and walks him. Tiffany’s morning routine ends at 7:10am when she has to head to the bus stop.

The next person to share their morning routine is Tia. Their morning routine starts at 6:30 am. They first go downstairs to the kitchen and eat breakfast cereal with milk. Next, Tia goes back upstairs and does their casual skin routine and brushes their teeth. Lastly, Tia goes and gets dressed into their uniform and makes sure not to leave anything behind. Checking to make sure you have everything you need can be a crucial step in the morning routine. After that, Tia looks out for the bus that usually stops next to her house at 7:24am. Lastly, when thinking of my personal morning I wake up at 5:30am. I take a bath, brush my teeth, and do my hair. I don’t have a skin care morning routine because I simply don’t have time for it. Do you think skin care is important to make time for each morning, or do you do it at night? All I do after that is go back to my room, put on my uniform, and check to see if I have anything missing that I need for school. In addition to that, I make sure my computer is charged already and go see if my two brothers are ready. My brothers and I go downstairs to the kitchen, grab our lunch, and then have breakfast. We usually wait in the living room and watch something on the television. Finally, we wait until it’s time to go to the bus stop. When it’s 7:10 am, we start to fully get ready. I put on my sweater, wait for about 2 minutes, then around 7:15am-7:25am the bus arrives. Finally, we arrive at EEACS around 7:40am.

It’s interesting to see the differences/similarities between morning routines. Take some time to think about how you can maximize your own morning routine and what you could add/get rid of to make each morning a little bit easier!

Here are some tips proven to help maximize your time in the morning:
1. Get around 8 hours of sleep so you wake up refreshed and not sluggish.
2. Take some time to stretch and get your muscles going.
3. Hydrate!
4. Eat breakfast!
5. Set your things out the night before so you’re not rushing around.

Behind on Community Service Hours?

Iria Ubiera

It’s May of your senior year and you begin panicking because you are behind on your community service hours. Don’t be that person or put yourself through that! Community service hours are one of the main requirements seniors have to accomplish in order to walk across the graduation stage. Why do students have to do these services? The purpose of community service is to get closer with your community in and outside of the school. You can learn valuable life lessons as well as be an active member to your area. Before you volunteer, you must pick up a community service paper. Then, in a few sentences, you have to explain what you did for your community service when you’re finished with it. When you receive your hours, you can turn the paper in to your team leader, community coach, or college and career advisor. Once it’s in their hands, the paper will be processed and recorded. You can always check your hours by asking advisor Mrs. Weiss. If you are unsure of where her office is, it’s in the Fishbowl in Team 5. In order to graduate you need a total of 25 hours of community service. It might change so I suggest getting a few more than 25 hours just to be safe. Little things such as straightening chairs, taking out trash in classrooms, and making sure trash is taken out in the lunchroom are all examples of community service. Follow your process and ask any staff if they need help with anything. Community service is available everywhere, not just in your school, but also in your community! If you are ever unsure of how you can earn community service hours, or don’t even know where to start, here are a few ways you can start to build them up!

Holiday Recipes Made for Satisfaction

Mayson Terrell
Sweet Potato Casserole

Ingredients:
- 5 large sweet potatoes
- 1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil
- 1 1/4 cup almond milk
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon sea salt
- 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
- 3/4 cup fresh sage leaves
- Cinnamon
- 5/4 teaspoon whole rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 cup walnuts, more for garnish
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1 teaspoon minced fresh rosemary
- 1 teaspoon sea salt
- 1/8 teaspoon black pepper

Instructions:
1. Preheat the oven to 425°F.
2. Line a baking sheet with foil and brush an 8x11-inch baking dish, or similar, with olive oil.
3. Use a fork to poke a few holes into the sweet potatoes. Place your baking sheet and roast until very tender, about 60 minutes.
4. Make the crumble topping: In a food processor, place the oats, pecans, walnuts, garlic, maple syrup, olive oil, thyme, rosemary, and salt and pulse until just combined. Remove and set aside.
5. Scoop the cooked sweet potato flesh out of the skins and place in a food processor. Add the olive oil, almond milk, ginger, salt, and several grinds of pepper and process to combine. Spread the mixture into the baking dish.
6. Sprinkle with the crumble topping, additional nuts, and sage.
7. Drizzle with olive oil and bake for 20 minutes or until the topping is browned and crisp.

Pumpkin Pie

Ingredients:
- Cashew Cream (makes extra, you will use 1 1/2 cups below)
- 1 1/2 cups raw cashews, soaked 4 hours or overnight
- 1 1/2 cups water
- Pecan Crust
- 1 cup pecan halves, toasted
- 1 cup oat flour
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/3 cup butter or vegan butter, melted
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- pinch of sea salt

Filling
- 1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin puree
- 1 1/2 cups Cashew Cream, recipe above
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon sea salt
- Toppings (optional): whipped cream or Coconut Cream

Instructions:
1. Make the cashew cream. Drain and rinse the soaked cashews. In a high-speed blender, blend the drained cashews and the water on high speed until very smooth, two to three minutes. Set aside.
2. Preheat the oven to 350°F.
3. Make the crust. In a food processor, combine the pecans, oat flour, brown sugar, melted butter, cinnamon, and salt. Pulse until the mixture is finely ground and sticks together well when pressed between your fingers.
4. Tip the pecan mixture into a 10-inch pie pan and, using the flat bottom of a glass, press it evenly and firmly onto the bottom and up the sides to form the crust.
5. Bake for 12 minutes, or until the crust looks slightly browned. Set aside.
6. Make the filling. In a large bowl, combine the pumpkin puree, Cashew Cream, eggs, brown sugar, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, cloves, allspice, and salt. Whisk until smooth.
7. Pour the filling into the crust and bake until the center of the pie is set (a butter knife should come out clean), 30 to 40 minutes. Transfer to a rack and let cool completely. Store, covered, in the fridge for up to 3 days.

I took the time to interview junior Pamela Najm about her Thanksgiving traditions. She celebrates a traditional Middle Eastern Thanksgiving.

It’s really cool to see how others celebrate Thanksgiving and it’s important to note how not everyone does it the same way. This allows us to appreciate other cultures.

 ’Zooming’ Through Quarantine

Alex Maldonado

March 13th, 2020 was the last day everyone was school together until this year. For 18 months, we faced a challenge none of us have ever faced before. During the two weeks we all had off, we thought we were just going to come back before the end of the year. But we didn’t. We were told that we were still living in a global pandemic, but we had to go back to school, but in a different form. At first it was hard to adjust to the work on the laptop and the zoom classes, but we only had 2 months to go. Even though it was tough, we got through the school year. When the 2020-2021 school year started, we were virtual most of the year. This was tough too. We did schoolwork on Apex and it was easy to pass because of how easy cheating was. It’s the honest truth and a reality we all faced. The internet was right there on the internet. Sometimes we could take a test on Apex and then we would use our phones to Google the answers.

When bringing the turkey to the table, family members gather around the table with loud music and cheer to celebrate and start the feast. Most of the food is traditional Arabic food consisting of foods such as tabbouleh, kibbeh, fattoush, zaatar, hummus, baklava, etc. Near the end, my family often does dabbke. Dabbke is a traditional Arab dance where family members gather around in a circle and folk dance.

Reflecting on COVID-19 Cases

Tia Capers

Time has gone by but has the Covid situation really changed at all? A lot of school districts have allowed students back to school. Some have allowed hybrid learning, and a lot of schools have taken away the virtual option completely. Some parents have decided to have their child continue a virtual education, while most parents have opted to send their kids back to school. It seems that Pennsylvania is trying to hold back on another shutdown of the economy, but the Covid case numbers are not going down quickly just yet. We are also still seeing cases in the school today. The numbers in the state are comparable to what they were in the spring. However, they are trying to balance it out so that students could go back to school and people could go back to work as long as they followed the restrictions like wearing masks, social distancing, and capacity limiting. Some people have lost interest in following those rules because of how long the pandemic has lasted. Eastern Lancaster County School District’s high school and middle school have already switched back to remote learning earlier this school year for a short time. So it seems the possibility of another shutdown could happen if cases don’t diminish over the next few months.
Hawk Mountain Field Trip a Successful and Educational Adventure

It was a beautiful, brisk, sunny day. The 10th graders were going to Kempton, PA to visit Hawk Mountain. As they traveled on the 45 minute bus ride, they were able to observe the beautiful foliage with multiple shades of oranges, yellows, and golds. As students arrived at Hawk Mountain, they walked over to the amphitheater that had cool wooden statues surrounding the presenter area. After everyone was settled, a presentation started. They talked about the hawks and their characteristics, migration patterns, traits, and why they do what they do. It was extremely engaging and exciting, especially when the one presenter took out the red-tailed hawk. As she lifted her out of her cage, the hawk attempted to fly away. Thankfully they know to chain them to the glove that the presenter was holding. As the presenter was explaining some information about the hawk, students were able to admire the beauty of the huge bird. Her wingspan was extremely wide and students learned that she was about 4 years old. The presenter explained how they think she got hit by a car. A tip to remember: try not to throw your fruit peels or food on the side of the road, even if it’s biodegradable.

This entices beautiful birds like her to swoop down and get some to eat. This results in a lot of ears hitting them. After the presentation, students were lead back to the buses to grab their lunch. Then they embarked on their journey to the first stop: South lookout. As students walked up the first path, they quickly realized this would not be a breeze. After a five minute walk, students arrived at South Lookout. The path got a bit more steep on the way to North Lookout.

Executive’s First Pep Rallies of The Year

Orlando Morales

On Friday, October 15, 2021 the first pep rally of this school year was held in the Founder’s Hall gym. All of high school was gladly able to attend and participate in this wonderful school spirit event. It started off with the cheerleaders doing a routine that they had been practicing for a while with coaches Ms. Quintana and Ms. Prodes. The cheerleaders performed amazingly as the students in every section cheered them on. Right after this, the first ever football team in Executive history was announced. As the cheerleaders were lined up along both sides of the door, Mr. Anderson with high spirit and energy, recognized each and every football player there.

The crowds on both sides cheered as each player walked out. Shortly after, Mr. Anderson recognized the team’s manager, Annjelina Ferra, as well as the coach, Mr. Ford. The team did their iconic football chant in a big huddle, preparing for the game later that night. Mr. Ford proceeded to give a short and simple speech about the team and how hard they have been working, especially since it is a first year program. The crowd cheered as soon as he was done and then the team was off and onto the bus for an away game later that evening. In addition to football, during the pep rally Executive’s 2021–2022 student board was announced. After all of the hard work, the results were finally ready. Mr. Flavell announced each grade’s CEO and COO as well as the 7 board positions. Starting with chair of student culture, this year’s voice of the students, Yarimar Gonzalez. This year’s chair of events is Robert Rodriguez. Chair of compliance was won by Yaquelinne Piedra as well as this year’s treasurer, football manager Annjelina Ferra. This year’s secretary position was won by Jade Serrata. The votes for vice chairman and chairman were really close and had everyone on the edge of their seats to be announced. Our 2021–2022 vice chair is Iris Ubiera and chairman is Axel Van De Akker. Our student board this year is made up of all seniors and the student population can’t wait to see what they have in store for us this school year. Executive’s second pep rally was held on Friday, October 29th, 2021. This pep rally was specifically held to commemorate the seniors on the football team. Coach, Mr. Ford made a very sentimental speech about how hard the seniors had been working for their last year playing high school football. Seniors Dontae Quendo, Orlando Morales, Damaurian Jones, Cameron Croathamel, and Christian Rivera Jr, got to proudly walk out into the gym with those who supported them. It was a very softhearted moment and it’s great to see how these seniors were given the opportunity to be recognized. We look forward to even more pep rallies this year for our other sports teams!
How Social Media Can Influence Our Thinking

Maria De La Rosa

Today I’m going to change things up a bit by talking about the Addison Rae controversy and how social media impacts how you view people you may not know personally. There was a controversy that happened on March 26th about the famous TikTok star, Addison Rae. Jimmy Fallon invited her to the show and was given a challenge to do TikTok dances. Jimmy set up for her to perform the dances and she was able to successfully perform them. The problem was that Addison didn’t give any credits to the African American creators of the dances. This sparked a controversy all over social media. Jimmy stated, “Now, we recognize that the creators of those dances deserve to have their own spotlight. So right now, some of the creators will join me to talk about how their dance went viral and then perform the dance themselves.”

Fallon had spoken to those creators Mya Nicole Johnson and Chris Cotter, who created “Up,” Dorien Scott of “Corvette Corvette” fame, Fur-Quan Powell and Camyra Franklin of “Laffy Taffy,” Adam Snyder, Nate Nale and Greg Dahl from “Blinding Lights,” and Keara Wilson, who have choreographed the moves to Savage. Addison commented saying “So happy these creators were able to be highlighted,” she wrote. “I hope we can all dance soon. Show them love!” But another controversy broke out. This time it got serious. Addison Rae joked about being hired as a UFC sports correspondent. On Twitter she said that she had been “fired” from her new role. She even took photos of herself at the event for the UFC wrestling match between Dustin Poirier and Conor McGregor in Las Vegas. For this picture she captioned “I studied broadcast journalism in college for a whole 3 months to prepare for this moment.”

She implied she was working with UFC by sharing this Instagram post including mirror gym selfies wearing a UFC gym kit. People started getting mad about that because there are so many journalists who studied way longer than she has, yet she got that opportunity, likely because of her fame on TikTok. Addison tweeted saying jokingly “Nvm y’all got me fired.” However, it turns out the whole thing was a big misunderstanding. Everyone misinterpreted what Addison was trying to say. Addison, like many social media stars, has faced criticism for trying to break through to mainstream media. When she released her first single “Obsessed,” many were quick to tear the song apart. A lot of social media stars got back lash from people for what they say and do. In addition to posts, they get judged for how they act on social media and sometimes we can determine that it’s not okay. Celebrities and influencers are just like us. We are all humans at the end of the day. It’s interesting how quick we are to judge other people and point out their flaws when we don’t point out our own flaws. We all do stupid things on social media just to get a like or a follow. Should celebrities and influencers just be more careful because of their platforms? Social media has the potential to destroy us, break us down, and can bring out the worst in us. We shouldn’t rush to judging these TikTok creators when we might ruin them over something that might not be fully understood. We don’t know what these people are going through and we don’t know what goes on in their lives off social media and the cameras. So next time you find yourself rushing to judge or participate in cancel culture, make sure you try to get all the facts and understand the situation from an unbiased point of view. All creator should be held accountable for their words and actions. Sometimes they are not taken seriously enough. Other times, they are taken more seriously than they should be. It’s up to us as consumers of social media to become as informed as possible before making potential judgements.
